Digital Circuit Training for Teachers

This workshop will introduce participants to a range of digital technologies in a fast-paced, play-based practical session, covering the basics of video manipulation using Isadora, live-feed projection and creating and documenting performance for screen.

Through repurposing everyday and low-fi technologies the workshop will inspire and encourage participants to explore digital tools beyond their usual uses and consider how they could be applied in their practice-based teaching and learning.

No previous experience required.
